FRIENDS COMMITTEE ON

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

NATIONAL LEGISLATION

SPECIAL SUPPLEMENT
JULY 1995

NO. 590

Congressional Directory 1995-96

The 104th Congress opened with new leadership, new structures, and new rules. Congressional leaders in both houses decided to consolidate certain committees and subcommittees; in the House, several committees have new names and new "job descriptions."

This special issue of the FCNL Newsletter will be a useful tool for your work with the new Congress. Inside, you will find members of Congress listed in their state delegations. Next to each member's name is a list of committees (names abbreviated) on which he or she serves.

All major House and Senate committees and selected subcommittees are listed on pages 5 through 8. From time to time, FCNL will draw your attention to the work of a particular committee. When legislation is still in committee, it can be supported or modified more easily — or stopped, if necessary. You may find that your senators' or representative's committee assignments give you a good opportunity to communicate with that member early in the legislative process.

How to use this directory:

Find your state. The two senators are listed first. Representatives are listed by district in numerical order. If you're not sure of your congressional district, call the registrar of voters for your city or county.

Find the committees on which your representative and senators serve. (See key on page 2 to explain abbreviations.) Keep these committees in mind, in case you want to respond to special action alerts for these committees.

Pick one of your senators, or pick your representative, for a special focus. You might select a person who serves on a committee that particularly interests you; or you might select someone that you met at a town meeting or fundraiser.

Write a note or card to introduce yourself, and ask a question that can begin a continuing correspondence on an issue of special concern to you. (For further ideas on this process, ask FCNL for the "Adopt a Member of Congress" brochure.)

Use FCNL's weekly legislative action message for timely information and action suggestions. It's accessible by phone (202-547-4343) or computer. On PeaceNet, go to conference fcnl.updates. On CompuServe, type GOISSUESFORUM, then type R FCNL.)
